Looking to track customer satisfaction & manage back-end operations, but don't have the time to track it manually?

KitchenGo KDS tracks real-time analytics. In doing so, this feature allows you to monitor each location in your enterprise down to the station. This allows you to identify bottlenecks and location performance so decisions can be made using real data – no guessing.

Data is gold. KitchenGo KDS supplies the data you need in order to make informed decisions.

Unlike other solutions, you can utilize these reports even when offline, providing metrics to optimize operations even when faced with unforeseen circumstances that would ordinarily cause operations to halt.

You also have the ability to customize your analytics in real-time. This is an essential function for enterprises to “mom and pop” establishments alike, as it allows for split-second changes necessary to match the fast-paced environment of your kitchen. With this valuable data, you can monitor and manage your establishment whenever, and wherever.

In doing so, you can:

- reduce food waste
- increase customer satisfaction
- better manage customer orders
- track orders in real-time no matter your location
- & much more...
